

NATO Allied Command Transformation International CD&E Conference

Fact Sheet – 2020 International CD&E Conference

- Background: Since 2001, the International Concept Development and Experimentation (ICD&E) Conference has provided a unique opportunity for the international community to discuss the most current issues relating to CD&E.
- Event Overview: The 2020 Conference will take place for the first time in a virtual setting. This event aims to promote a collaborative approach to concept development and experimentation, and share the knowledge and experience garnered from national expertise. The four-day Conference will encompass a scope from exploring themes for future concepts to applied experimentation as well as creative ideation, additionally offering workshop opportunities to improve individual exposure to CD&E tool and topics. Highlights will include unique and engaging speakers from Allied and Partner Nations, academia and industry, interactive questions and answer sessions, panel discussions, networking opportunities, and the 'CD&E Exchange', a virtual Expo promoting CD&E organizations, work strands, and related initiatives.
- Date: 26 – 29 October 2020
- Registration: Visit www.act.nato.int/cde-conf to register for this event.
- Attendees: The audience for the conference includes delegates from NATO countries. Other attendees include those from NATO Partner nations and partner organisations with concept development and experimentation backgrounds and experience.
- Host: NATO Allied Command Transformation
