Royal Navy Rear Admiral Philip Jones, Assistant Chief of the Naval Staff, visited Allied Command Transformation (ACT) May 24.

Hosted by ACT Chief of Staff, Royal Navy Vice Admiral Robert Cooling, Jones visited ACT for meetings with ACT senior leadership. During his visit, Jones had an office call with SACT, French Air Force General Stephane Abrial and received a briefing of ACT's goals and initiatives.

As Assistant Chief of the Naval Staff, Jones is responsible for enhancing the future of the Royal Navy through naval policy development. He is also the First Sea Lord's Chief Executive and on his behalf to direct the implementation of Admiralty Board and Service Executive Committee (Navy Board) policy, providing the high level guidance and prioritisation needed by the Naval Commands (TLBs) to deliver their military outputs.
